but many speciators thought he showed very clearly that he didn't understand the game.

-th the seventh inning he called many Lawmaker out at the home plate, and apparently he didn't even see the playin fact, he was looking towards second base at the time. His other decisions were off color, and, while he may not have been the cause of the Lynchburg's victory, he was certainly plainly and uninstatably yellow. Drew was taken out of the box in the fourth inning after he had allowed four hits, all of which had been scattered. There had been one earned run made. Siebrie, in ieft garden, made an error that permitted a run, and Reeve, at short, didn't get to a ball that went in his direction. The rules are very simple on this point, and whether or not Reeve touched the ball, doesn't make any difference about the error. In fact, he has played the position at short like a man who was afraid of an error—he doesn't get to the ball in time. Reeve may be a good player, but he wants to go after the ball a little faster.

But, anyway, Drew was taken out of the box and Happy Eckstone sent in Happy didn't do a thing but permit nine safe swats. These, of course, meant runs for the visitors, and that's the reason Lynchburg went away with the game. Carter was happy, Magnate Jack Grim was somewhat pleased, and even Reddy Walsh smiled.

There were no features to the game unless the pitching could be termes in this line. Darringer, the Lynchburg but the winning of the contest was not all due to horseshoes, as they struck a batting streak in the winning inning. Leonard was taken out of the box, and the southpaw, Otey, took his place. Both teams had to use two pitchers. Charters began for the locals, but on account of his wildness he was displaced by Rickards, Rickards was also, wild, but allowed few hits. The two winning runs came in on a rank error of Captain Clarke, who allowed a batted ball hit by Fetzer to go through his legs, Hopkins, in right field, muffing the same bull. Two men came home, putting the locals one ahead. In the ninth inning Norfolk got a man on third, but could not score him. There were no features to the game unless the pitching could be termed in this line. Darringer, the Lynchburs short stop, was the star. He picked up some hot ones, and his work all-around was good. Incidentally, it is strange when Darringer doesn't play a good game in the infield.

Hundred Miles Beaten.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

CHARLOTTE, N. C., June 2".—Dr. R.

E. Mason has been notilied that among the homing pigeons he liberated last Monday morning, one of the birds broke all previous records for a 400-mile race.
On account of the very bad weather, the majority of the racers were very much retarded in their flight, and some of them have not yet reached their destination, but the champion flyer, belonging to a pigeon fancier at York, Pa., arrived Monday afternoon at 5:7 o clock, having made an average of 1.0% yards a minute.
Out of 142 birds sent to York, 51 have been reported. Only 10 out or 77 have been reported from Lancaster, the 10 having arrived at 12:35 P. M. Tuesday.
There are yet 153 pigeons to be heard from. There seems to be much rivalry among the pigeon fanciers of York and Loncaster. The contest Monday was watched with a great deal of interest by the neople of these cuites. Judging from newspaper accounts of the race.

Th owner of the champion bird will receive first diploma and a silver lovingoup.
